Blue Earth

2004 MVP

Class C

In his own words: I was coming off my freshman year of college ball so that helped. I was already in good baseball form. I went to Rochester Community and Technical College my first two years so that helped just getting right into that season from college baseball. Then what I remember most is the group of guys that I played with. I had the funnest time with the guys that I was able to play with. They were all talented, they were all young and from one to nine every position in our order was all top-notch. Anybody on our team I thought would have been the best player on any other team so it was just a solid line-up. It was a lot of fun to play with them because they were all characters. No one took the game—we took it seriously, but—yet we were having a fun time at the same time. Very fun and interesting.

You always hang out after games together. You build a good relationship with every guy on the team. I think that's what helped us propel, I mean pretty much everyone was either in college playing ball or just finished up playing ball in college so we were all still young and playing lot of baseball. Top to bottom of the order, every position top to bottom, it was a lot of fun.

I hit a home run at the Jordan ballpark. That is probably my favorite ballpark I played on in Minnesota. It's below a hill and just a beautifully laid out stadium. I remember hitting a home run on that field. The pitch was a curve ball. I don't remember a lot of specifics about it other than that—I just felt good and comfortable at the plate and I think the majority of our guys did too. When I'm having fun out there and you don't take it too seriously and what-not, it makes for an easy at bat. Everything just seemed to line up that year.
